

ARE NOT INTERESTED IN ANCIENT BUILDINGS

American visitors in England do not seem to be interested in the places of historical interest, but are busy about the people, seeing how they live.

London, July 8.—There has been a notable change in the fashion of sight-seeing among American visitors in England in the last few years. Formerly they looked out places of historical interest where they might be found in books, with note books and guide books in their hands, or gathered around a guide, listening to a lecture and trying to explain to one another what he was saying in words of Cockney accent.

Nowadays the tourist is seeking to learn how the Englishman lives and how the every day life of English life is carried on. It is his looking into the public institutions and comparing them with those at home. Many American visitors may be found to-day at the Metropolitan Museum, at the electric power stations, at Greenwich and Chelsea, respectively, the London county council school, the fire brigade headquarters, the London county council pumping stations and the sewerage system than at St. Paul's cathedral, the Tower of London, or at the Albert memorial.

The usual thing now for Americans is to bring over dozens of letters of introduction to Londoners, bankers, people of society and members of public bodies. Most Americans who see St. Paul's get only a casual glance at it on their way to the city to deliver some letters of introduction, while the tower is pointed out to them, at a glance as part of the perspective as Harrow might be from Hampstead Heath. The following explanation made one day this week, shows how few American visitors are found in places which they formerly frequented in droves.

St. Paul's, 5, Westminster Abbey 18, the Tower of London 8, the Albert memorial 4, the National gallery 4. This, too, at the height of the season, when American visitors are especially numerous.

At Hartington, Hants, England, Winchester, Hants, on the Thames and entered through England in autumn, however, they are seen by the thousands.

MELODY'S DAMAGE TO CROPS IN NORTH DAKOTA

Whitely, July 9.—At the 5 grain exchange today a number of speculative reports were about regarding damage to crops in North Dakota and Minnesota by hail and wind storms, but no very definite information could be gathered as this city is practically cut off from telegraphic communication from the south. Messages for Chicago are being routed via Montreal or Vancouver.

CLAIMS AEROPLANES FRIGHTENED HIS STOCK

Farmer tells him damage from Mrs. At Aviation Meet—Stocks flying the New York Order are Source of Damage.

Paris, July 9.—An airplane accident involving two men, while flying over the city of Paris, has caused a panic among the stock market. The French stock market was closed for the day, and the cause of the panic was the report that an airplane had crashed into the stock exchange.

MORE ABOUT THE BOLT

The bolt which was taken from the Los Angeles paper the day after the bolt, it is of interest.

"Sleeping over it" did not serve to clarify the story, and today the confusion that followed the end of Thursday's championship fight between Al Voltag and Joe Rivers at York.

The effect of "take" and "take" was not clear, and today among the spectators of the fight, and promoter McCall's claim that in view of the fact that Voltag was the champion, he should not fight against the decision of the referee.

Voltag, as a champion, he had not to be champion.

College Terrace—Favored by Nature in Everything that Makes a Beautiful Homesite

Seldom indeed will you find a property enjoying so many advantages as does COLLEGE TERRACE. Beautifully located in a part of the city where much development is planned, it stands out as an investment opportunity which you cannot afford to miss. The new Alberta College (which immediately adjoins this property to the east), will lend greatly to the beauty and value of COLLEGE TERRACE. With the completion of this building will come other improvements—Street Cars, Water and Light. These argue increased values to those purchasing now.

COLLEGE TERRACE

If you are looking for an investment that promises big returns, we want you to see us about this. Prices are now $350 per lot, up to $550, and the terms are very easy—3, 6, 9, 12 and 15 months. Come in and see the plans. Then let us motor you out to see just what is offered here.

NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

BEAVER HILLS.

Bulletin News Service.
Many improvements are being made here. Mr. Attridge and Mr. Grouse are building new houses. Mr. Legg and Mr. Vetter are building substantial additions to their homes. Woven wire fencing and plain wire, together with patent gates, are replacing the old barbed wire fences and Galician gates.

While the coming of the street car to the Port people in this district are looking for an extension along the correction line to the park.

Mr. Schneider, who has moved into A. Schneider's house, and H. Martin is moving into J. Grouse's house.

Mr. Doss, it is rumored, has sold his farm to Mr. Ashton. Mr. Ashton has been renting it for some time.

The bridge in the correction line west of Mr. Doss's place is being replaced by a new one.

Sand is being placed on the correction line east of the Port to mix with the clay taken from the ditches and piled on the road bed. It is hoped the experiment will prevent the deep ruts in the road.

Mr. Schneider Bros. have purchased an eight-foot wide plow and are taking the change of view.

Read work is in progress in this district.

ROYALIST MOVEMENT BEGINS IN PORTUGAL

Captain Goncalves With Well-Armed Force Is Expected Near Montevideo—Movement Forces Are Said to Have Checked the Movement For the Moment

Lisbon, July 9.—The long expected royalist movement began yesterday, but according to official information it has been checked. The outbreaks were confined for the most part to some small districts in the north. The telegraphic communication which was cut at Villaverde and Braga has been restored and the railways have been cleared of obstructions.

It appears that Captain Goncalves, the royalist leader with the bulk of his forces well armed, is camped near Montevideo, but the government has troops along the frontier, expecting it is unimportant, of exterminating the royalists if they show fight.

An official note says that the garrison of Montevideo have been reinforced and has stopped the advance of the royalists under Goncalves. Another official note, however, is that the royalists are still in the north, and columns have been sent to engage it.

Arrests continue in various parts of the country and the royalists are offered.
